Data protection

The OFT will use the information you supply for the purposes of making changes to your consumer credit licence. It may also obtain information it considers relevant from other sources (for example, other regulatory, enforcement or public authorities, including the courts and the police). While the Data Protection Act 1998 and section 237 of the Enterprise Act 2002 restrict disclosure of such information, they also allow disclosure for a number of purposes without your further consent. For example, the OFT may use the information in connection with enforcement or regulatory action it takes under its own powers or may refer the information to other government departments or regulatory, enforcement or public authorities in connection with the exercise of their functions.

What happens next?

We will note the changes that you have told us about in our records.

We will write to tell you when we have made the changes to the Consumer Credit Licensing Public Register.

We will write to you if we need any more information.

As we do not need to make any changes to your licence, we will not send you a new one. You can continue to trade as normal.

If you have any queries about your notification, please call us on 020 7211 8608, between 9am and 5pm, Monday to Friday.
